

"COME-BACKS" WON GAME

Spaulding Alumni Defeated the School Nine, 9 to 8, Yesterday

BY A CLOSE FINISH RALLY

With Score Two Points Against Them, the "Grads" Stepped Up With Their Big Sticks and Met the Ball on the Nose for Three Runs.

An unexpected batting rally in the ninth inning, such as is read in many current novels dealing in fictitious athletic heroes, enabled players whose names have been in the past, and are now, fondly associated with athletics at Spaulding high school to nose out a hard-earned victory over the present day representatives of the school at the trotting park yesterday. The score at the close of the game stood 9 to 8.

The assembly of alumni of baseball ability was just sufficient to make up a team of the requisite number of players, but the article of ball handed out by the old-timers made the many graduates of the school chuckle and they were decidedly pleased at the outcome.

The lead throughout the game changed several times. The school boys kept the lead until the fifth inning when the alumni amassed five runs, bringing the total of their tallies up to six. At this stage, the younger lads had scored three runs. Feeling confident of their superiority over their opponents, the alumni, in order that a prevailing spirit of complacency might be defused to the younger element, kindled the flame of hope for victory in breasts of the undergraduates by allowing them to add four more runs in the fifth, making a total of seven and putting them ahead by one run.

With the score 8 to 6 in favor of the baseball team of 1912, the alumni came in for their bats in the opening half of the last session still confident of victory. J. Kenefick, the first man up, whiffed at three of Williams' shots and then sat down. William Johnston, the captain of the Barre Athletic club and one of the best ball players ever turned out of Spaulding, rammed out a double and was scored on Solinski's double. James Leve, the Blue Sox man, was there with the willow and smashed out a single that evened up the score when Solinski counted from second. Grover C. Kenefick then won his own game by meeting one of pitcher Williams' slants and sending it on a line safely to the outer gardens.

The opposing pitchers were Williams and Grover Kenefick. The former was touched up for fourteen hits, while the latter was met for twelve. Williams fanned fourteen and ten succumbed to the curves of Kenefick. It was remarkable the way the grads came back at the bat; every man was credited with at least one hit and in the field not a single miscue was made by them. The fielding stunts pulled off by them were sensational. The score:

Utterly Wretched

Nervous Prostration Long Endured Before Remedy Was Found. Miss Minerva Remington, Upper Bern, Pa., writes: "For several years I had nervous prostration, and was utterly wretched. I lived on bread and beef tea because my stomach would not retain anything else. I took many remedies, but obtained no relief until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, when I began to gain at once. Am now cured."

Pure, rich blood makes good, strong nerves, and this is why Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies and enriches the blood, cures so many nervous diseases. Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs.

NORWICH DEFEATED

ST. MICHAELS, 3 TO 1

Costly Errors Caused Defeat by the Winoski College at Northfield Yesterday Afternoon.

Northfield, June 8.—Norwich won from St. Michael's yesterday in a game characterized by errors due to the cold weather, the score being 3 to 1. The home team played very well, considering their three weeks' absence from the game. Some of them showed marked improvement in fielding, especially Thompson at short.

The victors scored in the third by a hit and two sacrifice hits, followed by another hit to left. Norwich scored in the fourth by a base on balls to Murray, a sacrifice by Belyea and an error at second. In the fifth, with one down, Parkman got on by Stuart's error, went to third on Burwell's hit to right; and when the centerfielder muffed a fly from Murray's bat, Parkman scored. Burwell going along a peg. Burwell started to steal third, and when the ball got by the third baseman, Burwell continued home.

Keegan was replaced by Parkman in the third inning. The summary: R.H.S. St. Michael's. 0 0 1 0 0 0 0-1 8 4 Norwich. 0 0 0 1 2 0 0 3-3 3 Batteries—Keegan, Parkman and Munsell; Tarbell and Mahan. ## "MONEY TRUST" FORCED

SOUND BANKS TO QUIT

Inference from Sherer Testimony Before Committee as to Calling of Clearing House Loan Certificates.

New York, June 8.—Testimony intended to show how power of the New York clearing house committee was used to force a solvent bank to the wall after the panic of 1907 was given yesterday before the congressional committee investigating the so-called money trust. R. W. Jones, president of the Oriental bank, the institution alleged to have been forced to the wall, and others testified to the effect that the committee forced his retirement and withdrew the clearing house certificates so suddenly that the bank was forced to close.

Samuel Untermyer conducted the examination, continuing his effort to prove clearing house should be subject to regulation by law.

ROOSEVELT NEAR THE END

This Indicated by His Recent Manoeuvres

HIS WEAKNESS IS REVEALED

In Sending Special Ambassadors—Question of Bolt Now Becomes Important—Indifference Shown in Relation to Chairmanship.

Chicago, June 8.—With the Roosevelt people lined up in the preliminary fights of the Republican national convention, it has now come down solely to the question of whether Roosevelt and they shall "take their medicine" and continue in the party, or shall bolt.

While Senator Dixon, Grimsby, McHarg and others in the spotlight at the Roosevelt headquarters are still making an effort to keep up some kind of a front, others close into the inner organization but not so conspicuously frank, admit in private conversations that "the show down has come" and that "the jig is up." The realization of this by Roosevelt himself was recorded yesterday by his hurry-up orders to "Boss" Flynn of Pennsylvania to get here. There is promise that the corpse is going to be made a lively one and that death is to come only after the greatest prolonged agony in the most public place that can be selected and even under the gaze of the moving picture camera, but the Roosevelt men, who are now admitting defeat, make no effort to conceal the fact that the death scene is billed.

Side by side with the great question which now confronts them, whether they shall remain Republicans or become bolters, is another one. It is whether the third-term can finance a third party campaign. Some are inclined to believe that he can; others that already his pre-convention campaign, which has drawn over a million dollars from his supporters, has given them some indication how expensive a thing a six-months' nationwide real campaign would be.

There are undoubtedly, it is said, some enthusiasts who would be willing to put up their money, but the great source of supply are wholly material. The harvester and steel trusts have no great ideals to pursue; they care not a fig for the great question of the greater democratization of the country.

Now that it has been shown that the campaign claims have been false, the Roosevelt lines already are breaking. The break is coming in two ways and is already markedly apparent here. First a great many "Roosevelt men" have tied to him solely because they believed that he was the only man who could carry the party to victory. They have, as a rule, been selfish and their attitude has been solely in the interest of "getting through our county ticket" or the district or state ticket. They are face to face with the fact that a break here would mean defeat of those tickets. Primarily they are still strict party men wanting success and many of them have shown that they are in the Roosevelt ranks without any great attachments, or even belief in the man, but solely as opportunists.

Secondly, the "idealists" have been very lukewarm on Roosevelt from the beginning, and who don't today like the hurry-up call of such a notorious boss as Flynn. They originally lined up behind La Follette and are at heart La Follette men. Some of them in their private conversations admit that they marvel how they ever got "mixed up" with the man, who certainly advocates nothing for which they really stand. They point out very frankly that he primarily believes in eliminating competition by substitution of government regulation, while all idealists in the progressive movement, from Louis Brandeis to La Follette, think that competition is the only rock of our national salvation, and that the great work to be done is to restore it by destroying the very monopoly control that Roosevelt proposes to recognize and establish. They only know that by some process they were switched into the Roosevelt camps and have been held by his magnetic personality and power to get finances. It is revealed here that they have lost much respect for him because he is accepting from the very interests that are against the rule of the people the money for the fight for the appropriated slogan "the rule of the people." A good many of these men are Roosevelt delegates, and they would like to vote for La Follette if he is found to have any show. They are not ready for a bolt.

ASSERTS BOLT BY ROOSEVELT IS ARRANGED

Close Adviser of the Colonel Says That He Is Going to Chicago on Wednesday.

New York, June 8.—Col. Roosevelt will go to Chicago next Wednesday and will bolt if his delegates are not seated in the convention, according to the positive statement yesterday of one of the colonel's political advisers. He said all arrangements had been completed; that plans were under way for a Roosevelt convention and that there was no further doubt as to the Roosevelt program. He said Roosevelt would make the fight personally and to the last ditch; that he would not accept the tactics of the national committee and that he stood ready to carry his fight directly to the people.

LOST ON GOLF LINKS?

Mystery of Minority Report on Cotton Bill Stilled Unsolved.

Washington, June 8.—A little little mystery developed Thursday, when it was discovered that the minority report from the ways and means committee on the cotton bill had disappeared, and most of the Republicans who signed it are sure that it is in existence, but up to the last minute before adjournment Thursday the report had not been sent in, and it was necessary for Representative Payne to ask for a day of grace.

Mr. McCall, who put his name to the report, advances the theory that Mr. Dalzell, who was securing the signatures, put the document in his pocket and disappeared in the direction of the Chevy Chase Golf club. If the report is not forthcoming, Mr. McCall thinks it might be well to search in the rough near the seventeenth hole.

It Cannot Substitute Itself for Interstate Commission.

Washington, June 8.—The supreme court yesterday reversed the commerce court's decision, which would have allowed railroads to carry railroad fuel at lower rates than commercial coal. The interstate commerce commission was upheld.

The principal decisions were announced by Chief Justice White and concurred in by the entire court.

Jurisdiction of the commerce commission, as well as over those recognized by the commission through affirmative orders for relief, was denied by the supreme court.

BRITONS BRACING UP

IN TRACK SPORTS

Recent Olympic Games Tryout Was Not Notable in Mark Made, but in the Number of Entries and the Large Attendance.

London, June 8.—British sportsmen are greatly pleased over the success of the Olympic games tryouts held at Stamford Bridge. This elation was not due so much to the records, which in the main were not startling, but because the games were marked by a large entry list, and were attended by 10,000 spectators, in striking contrast to the meagre entries and attendance of the tryouts which preceded the 1908 Olympiad. Critics declare that there has been a real revival of interest in track and field sports, and while they are still hopeless of seeing the Union Jack flying at Stockholm in a majority of the events, they feel that the British team will make a good showing.

In the sprints and middle distances, several good records were made, notably the time of Seedhouse in the 400 metres. He covered the distance in 49.15 seconds, thereby equaling Hillman's Olympic record. If the Blackheath Harrier can improve his finishing qualities he will be the man the American quarter milers will have to beat at Stockholm.

If John Paul Jones of Cornell does not appear as a member of the American team the English runners may have a chance of breaking the tape in the half and mile runs, as the records made in these events compare favorably with the best American performances over these distances. Mann, of the polytechnic Harriers, took the half and Cottrell, of the Hallamshire Harriers, was first in the 1,600 metres, the distance closest to the mile.

In the short dashes, the university sprinters, who were kept out on account of examinations, were missed, and it is quite likely that Macmillan, of Cambridge, after a private trial will be selected by the Olympic committee as the mainstay of the British team in the sprints. His ten flat over a wet track in the annual Oxford-Cambridge field day stamps him as a formidable opponent for any sprinter.

In the longer distances no records worthy of note were made. The Marathon was run in the excellent time of 2 hours 36 minutes 55.25 seconds, but the winner was Corkery, a young Irish-Canadian, and the second man across was C. W. Githam, a dusky member of the south African Olympic team.

Any average college team in the United States could have beaten the entries in the field events. The only consolation which the critics can draw from this division is the fact that Baker jumped six feet in the high after trying for first place with a leap of five feet eleven inches, but that was before they heard that six feet was not even good for third place in the recent Pacific coast college conference meet.

The best thrower of 124 feet 3.12 inches, made a good impression by his style, and he is looked upon as a sure point winner. The trials did not develop any new material for the British team, but they simplified the task of the selectors, for with the exception of the university stars kept out by examinations, the best athletes now performing on track and field were numbered among the entries. This is fortunate, for when it is all over, the critic will have no opportunity to declare that the judges did not make the best possible selection from the material at hand.

MORE POTATOES AND LESS CORN.

Outlook for These Crops in Maine This Year.

Augusta, Me., June 8.—William T. Gupit, state dairy inspector, states that rather more potatoes will be cultivated in Aroostook county than last year, according to the statements made by the people in that county. The next most important potato region is that along the main line of the Maine Central railroad, where several poor years have discouraged the producers in some instances, and the acreage is expected to show a slight decrease. The net result is a small increase for the whole state.

Sweet corn acreage will be less in many cases on account of the lateness of the planting season, owing to the cold rains in May, and in some cases owing to dissatisfaction over the loss of part of the crop from early frost last fall. On the other hand there are several new corn packeries that will be opened this year, and will cause increases in their immediate vicinities.

THIRTY MEN ARE KILLED

IN POWDER BLOW-UP

Austrian Explosion Shakes Entire Countryside and Alarms the Emperor.

Vienna, June 8.—Thirty men are known to have been killed yesterday and torn fragments of bodies scattered all over the vicinity indicated that many more were blown to their deaths by an explosion in an ammunition factory at Mollsdorf, near here. Two hundred tons of powder blew up and the entire countryside was shaken as by an earthquake.

The shock was felt here and Emperor Franz Josef in the royal castle at Schoenbrunn was alarmed. The buildings of the ammunition plant were completely wrecked and in the debris 30 bodies were found. Portions of other bodies indicated more perished, but it was impossible to estimate the number.

He explained his escape by saying he wore no uniform, but was dressed like any passenger.

Sixty Kitchen Employees Were Barred from Decks, a London Witness Says.

Mauge said the kitchen workers were assembled on the third-class deck after the Titanic struck the ice, and might have had a chance for their lives had they been allowed to go to the upper decks. He explained his escape by saying he wore no uniform, but was dressed like any passenger.
